

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The present invention relates to a method of encoding video and other data types. The method includes receiving an input. The input data pixel is split into a plurality of components and a data bit is concatenated onto each of the plurality of components. The plurality of components and concatenated bit are DC balanced and communicated to a channel.